Johann Wolfgang von Goethe - A Musical Celebration

Continuing its celebrations of the 250th anniversary of Goethe's birth, the Goethe-Institut presents two recitals of Lieder settings of Goethe's poems, together with recitations of the English texts.

The two programmes have been co-ordinated by pianist Gusztáv Fenyő.

JOHANN WOLFGANG VON GOETHE

Germany's greatest poet was born in Frankfurt am Main on 28 August 1749, and died on 22 March 1832 in Weimar where he had served as government minister.

Best known today as the author of Faust, the epic masterpiece of German theatre, in his own time he was most famous for his first novel, The Sorrows of Young Werther, which took all of Europe by storm in 1774.

Through art criticism, essays and reviews Goethe became Germany's most influential cultural critic of his time. A prolific scientist and historian of science, he was one of the last great writers in Europe for whom the natural sciences belonged to the realm of general culture.

Goethe continued to write poetry throughout his life, and the natural singing quality of his poems and their wealth of human experience have been an inspiration to a great number of composers.

Sarah Fox: Winner of the 1997 Kathleen Ferrier competition, soprano Sarah Fox has performed in most of the major concert halls in Britain. Her future engagements include Glyndebourne Festival & Touring Opera's Don Giovanni.

Christopher Underwood: A former winner of the Benson & Hedges Gold Award, baritone Christopher Underwood has given many concerts throughout Europe. In 1994 he was appointed Head of the Vocal Studies Department at the RSAMD.

Gusztáv Fenyő: Since his London début at the Wigmore Hall in 1978, Gusztáv Fenyő, a descendant of the great Hungarian violinist Joseph Joachim has performed solo and chamber repertoire throughout Europe, Australia and North America. Earlier this year, he presented an extensive series of Chopin recitals at the Hutchesons' Hall to great critical acclaim.

Giles Havergal: Giles Havergal, one of the directors of the Citizens Theatre Glasgow, has directed numerous productions and is also acting regularly with the company. Outside the Citizens', he has worked with a number of Operas both here and abroad. His next production at the Citizens' is Death in Venice by Thomas Mann, adapted by Robert D. MacDonald, which will run from 24 November to 18 December.
