One of Scotland's leading musicians since 1980, Gusztáv Fenyő is well-known for his single-composer cycles, including Beethoven's 32 Sonatas, Chopin's complete piano works and Shostakovich's 24 Preludes & Fugues. A descendant of the Hungarian violinist Joseph Joachim, he studied with Maria Curcio, a disciple of the great Beethovenian pianist, Artur Schnabel, and at the Liszt Academy in Budapest. He has broadcast for the BBC, Hungarian Radio and the ABC and recorded Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt, Bartók, Delius, Stanford, Dunhill and Bantock.

Tamás Fejes was born into a family of musicians in Hungary and at age 10 was awarded 2nd prize in the János Koncz National Violin Competition. He studied at the Liszt Academy and has appeared as soloist on Hungarian National Radio & TV. In addition to leading orchestras in Germany, he has been a member of the Philharmonia Orchestra in London and has performed as soloist and chamber musician throughout Europe. In 2003 he was appointed Assistant Leader of the RSNO. He is also leader of the Fejes String Quartet and a professor at the RSAMD.

Emily Walker studied with Robert Irvine and Johannes Goritski at the RSAMD and with Robert Cohen in Switzerland, as well as performing in masterclasses with Colin Carr and the Brodsky Quartet. While based in Switzerland she was principal 'cellist of Ensemble Nove Cento, broadcasting on Swiss Radio, and has performed duo recitals with viola da gamba player Johanna Rose. She is a member of the youthful Alba Quartet and enjoys a busy freelance career with the SCO, Northern Sinfonia and BBC SSO.

VIENNESE MASTERS

We present a trio of concerts featuring four works each by three of the greatest masters to have made their home in Vienna: Haydn, Mozart and Schubert. Between them, they wrote some of the seminal works for the developing piano, as well as works combining with it the violin and the 'cello, both of which acquired increasingly important roles in home music-making in the years before and after 1800. Three varied concerts, each beginning with a representative keyboard sonata by Haydn and culminating in a major work from Schubert's final years.

The opening concert begins with one of the most felicitous earlier sonatas by Haydn. It is followed by Mozart's last work for violin and piano with its daringly expressive slow movement and virtuosic last movement. The Haydn trio is a companion piece to the famous Gypsy Trio and a ripely inventive later creation. The concert ends with the most dramatic of Schubert's last three sonatas in the Beethovenian key of C minor.

In Saturday evening's solo recital, one of Haydn's late sonatas representing Classicism at its zenith is followed by two starkly contrasting pieces by Mozart: the poignant late Rondo, full of anguish, and his last superb, joyous sonata. The programme ends with Schubert's masterly late sonata in A Major, by turns lyrical and turbulent, and bringing to mind his great song-cycle "Winter Journey".

The concluding concert contains two seldom-played works: an unusually dark outpouring by Haydn, and Mozart's rather neglected final piece for the trio combination. In between, the popular, perennial Schubert work written for a newly invented string instrument, the arpeggione, and usually played on the 'cello. And finally, one of the glories of the repertoire, Schubert's life-affirming B flat trio.
